Roundup Launches the Florida Fund
Scholarship Funds are Essential
Johnson Florida Receives a Shot in the Arm
A Unique Competitive Opportunity

2013-2014 Campus Body
On Saturday, October 12, Dr. David Eubanks welcomed alumni and friends to Roundup. Nearly 400 people enjoyed the program filled with music by the “Suns” All-alumni Band, and “New Creation.” The keynote speaker for the day was David Wheeler from the Johnson University Tennessee campus. David challenged the audience to consider the uniqueness of the two colleges coming together and how the kingdom can be impacted through the efforts of two locations. David’s alter ego, Clyde Dorkman, provided comic relief for the day as the new “college historian.” Testimonies were shared by the JUFL “New Life” Travel Teams as well as by alumni about the role JUFL has played in their lives.

We celebrated our rich history, from the beginning in Orlando as Central Florida Bible College, through the move to Kissimmee as Florida Christian College (thanks to the generosity of the Chapman family and sacrifices of many others). We explored our name changes, cultural changes, staff changes, while maintaining a focus on our mission: to educate and prepare kingdom workers for Florida and the world. We thank all who attended and those who gave of their time and talents to work during the event.

To date, almost $60,000 has been raised by Roundup gifts, with all gifts being designated for the newly launched “Florida Fund.” The Florida Fund is meant to help us bridge the gap between what the students are charged for tuition, fees, and housing and the actual costs to operate the campus per student. That gap is about $5,000 for each student this year. Monies given to the Florida Fund fill that gap.

You can contribute to the “Florida Fund” by simply making your check payable to: Johnson University Florida.
Webster defines “essential” as something of utmost importance. As Johnson University Florida continues to grow, it will be essential the University find ways to help students finance their education. One option is through scholarships.

Because of the financial pressures at Florida Christian College, limited activity had been taking place with the scholarship endowment funds of the College. Beginning with the 2013-2014 fiscal year, more attention is being given to promoting the establishment of new funds and the enlargement of existing ones. Even with low tuition, Johnson University Florida, or any other private college or university, must give scholarship assistance to attract worthy students who require financial aid to enroll.

Moreover, a recent study reported college student loan debt in America had gone over one trillion dollars for the first time, exceeding all credit card debt of American college and university alumni and students. We must do all we can to prevent as much debt as possible, especially for prospective preachers, youth ministers, missionaries, etc.

Six new scholarship endowment funds have been established at Johnson University Florida in the past few months. The Bill and Cheryl Behrman Scholarship Fund, the Lois Bootle Scholarship Fund, the James Chesser Missions Scholarship Fund, the Mark and Ann Fessler Scholarship Endowment Fund, the Robert C. Forbes Memorial Scholarship Fund, and the Great Commission Scholarship Fund. We are also creating the Unnamed Scholarship Endowment Fund for donors who might like to give to a scholarship endowment without starting one of their own. These are all permanent funds. From these funds five percent, or some similar rate set by the JU trustees, will be designated each year for student scholarships. All Johnson University Florida funds and all gifts to those funds will be used to award scholarships to students enrolled at JUFL.

A number of other scholarship endowments have been established over the last two decades that we believe friends would give to if they knew about them. Some of them are: the Glenn Bourne Preaching Scholarship Fund, the Roberta Chambers Music Scholarship Fund, the Bill Ellis Preaching Scholarship Fund, the W. Edward and Billye Joyce Fine Scholarship Fund, the David and Eva Meyer Scholarship Fund, and the Fred W. Smith Preaching Scholarship Fund.

Two new funds have been established by donors as “Bridge Endowment Funds.” They are the John and Ginger Hasty Bridge Endowment Fund, and the Natalie’s Bridge Endowment Fund. The income from these funds will be used to help “bridge” the gap between what students are charged by the University and what it actually costs to provide their education. Tuition, fees, and housing charges presently cover about 60% of the total cost of operating the institution. A large part of the other 40% must be met by gifts, hopefully augmented in the future, by income from bridge endowment funds.

Johnson University Florida
1011 Bill Beck Blvd.
Kissimmee, FL 34744
The Johnson University Florida campus received a major shot in the arm this past summer from four veteran Tennessee “volunteers.” Phil and Hazel Zook and Ron and Karen Williams came and lived in student apartments for a month, while they completely reconditioned the 109 air conditioners on campus, repaired other items of large and small equipment, and generally did anything else that they saw needed doing. All four are retired from decades of service to Johnson University in Tennessee. Both men managed the HVAC equipment on the Tennessee campus. It is impossible to determine how many thousands of dollars they saved the Florida campus this summer.

The outside portico, the lobby, and the large hallway which surrounds the Chapman Center gym have been greatly enhanced by the installation of new tile provided by Sam and Betty Widener of Gray, Tennessee. Several other friends of JUFL also made gifts toward the installation of the tile. The overwhelming reaction of faculty, staff, students, and visitors of the campus has been complimentary. Sometimes one strategic renovation can almost transform a much used facility. That has certainly been true with this project.

They were assisted by Jim and Clara Kellar, past volunteers at Johnson University Tennessee and at the Naples, Florida, Community Hospital. The Kellars moved on campus for an indefinite period to help supervise the housekeeping and maintenance program under Paul Peppard, plant services director. Clara Kellar has also enhanced the beauty of the campus with her landscaping skills.

Phil even took occasion to train one of the freshman students on the work program, Greg Wasden, to do repair work himself. Since the Zooks left, Greg has been the first person we call on when an air conditioner breaks down.

The Zooks and Williams regularly travel to other parts of the country to help people rebuild who have suffered from natural disasters and to assist Christian organizations in renovation projects. They are among the most giving people you will meet.

This ongoing enhancement project in the Chapman Center includes an all new color scheme, comfortable seating, new signage, and a photographic history of the University. We hope you will stop by to see the transformation which should be completed in early 2014.
One of the unique privileges of having one university with two campuses is the opportunity for the campuses to play one another in sports. In recent months, the Johnson University Florida ladies soccer team and the Cross Country team traveled to the Johnson University Tennessee campus to compete. The soccer teams have played each other previously as two separate schools; however this is the first time as Johnson versus Johnson. While the competitive spirit flowed during the game, the camaraderie following the game was inspiring to witness. One of the spectators, Joseph, an African national who graduated in May, could not grasp how Johnson played itself in women’s soccer, yet there was still a team that experienced a disappointing loss. He wanted to know why the JUTN coach didn’t substitute players to the JUFL team. We are not sure if he understood the explanation. After the game, both teams commented about how they look forward to playing one another in the coming years.

The Cross Country team had their work cut out for them as they competed against the Tennessee campus. One can imagine how our team fared as they met the challenges of the Tennessee mountains. Doug Johnson, athletic director of the JUFL campus, is hoping all of our athletic teams will be able to play one another from time to time. The camaraderie coming from competing with our sister college will continue to build relationships with the University’s two campuses.

Volleyball wraps up season.

First year coach, Brittany Long, and the Lady Suns wrapped up their season by playing in the regional tournament in New Port Richey, Florida. Coach Long is proud of the team as they worked hard and persevered during this transitional year. In 2014 we anticipate a team of godly women who are devoted to academic and athletic excellence and seek to glorify God on and off the court.

Covey Wise (’06) began a ministry with Monroeville Christian Church on August 18, 2013. He was ordained as an evangelist at Monroeville Christian on September 22, 2013.
Keeping Connected

Faculty News

We are pleased to announce Dr. Ruth Reyes, director of Johnson University Florida’s music program, has accepted the position of Assistant Dean of the School of Creative Arts. Ruth’s expertise in music and background in worship will be invaluable as we develop new music/worship and media arts programs on both campuses. Ruth is a tremendous blessing to Johnson University and the School of Creative Arts.

The Templar School of Education is pleased to announce Dr. Wendy Guthrie has accepted the position of Assistant Dean. Dr. Guthrie has done a wonderful job organizing and maintaining the former educational ministry opportunities on the Florida campus and has been a huge asset in the transition to the new curriculum. We are very blessed to be able add Wendy to our team!

Johnson University Florida Council

In January, Johnson University Florida will begin the process of forming the Johnson University Florida Council. The council will have representatives of all segments of the JUFL constituency: alumni, non-alumni donor friends, supporting churches, former trustees (1975-2013), faculty, staff, students, and all current Johnson University trustees who reside in Florida.

Dr. Eubanks On the Road

Chief Operating Officer David Eubanks arrived in Florida in mid-April and hit the ground running, or driving as the case may be. He has been traveling throughout the state visiting churches that contribute to Johnson University Florida, preaching, reporting on the merger, and informing constituents of current developments on campus. By the end of the year he will have spoken in 26 churches, 25% of our supporting churches. Without exception, the congregations he has visited have expressed strong words of appreciation and encouragement for the ongoing ministry of the University here in central Florida. We thank God and praise Him for the many churches who continue to support us financially and through prayer.

POTPOURRI

Michael Bryant (‘07) recently accepted the preaching pastor position at Pathway Christian Church in Port Richey, Florida.

Jordon Mishoe (‘10) graduated with an M.A. in Worship Studies from Lincoln Christian Seminary in May 2013 and was recently hired as the worship minister of Gulf Coast Christian Church in Pensacola, Florida.

Matt Mosher (‘10) graduated in July from Lincoln Christian University with an M.A. in Spiritual Formation and moved to Monroe, Georgia, in August to be the family minister at First Christian Church.

Rebecca Owens (‘11) recently moved to California to begin work at Mosaic Media Group and Atlas Production Company, a talent management and production company in Beverly Hills.

Andy Funes (‘12) began a new ministry with Real Life Christian Church east campus in Orlando as part of the youth ministry team, leading the college age Life Group.

James and Amber (Trebour) (‘12) Seemann serve as the youth leaders at Chancey Road Christian Church in Zephyrhills, Florida.

Clark Viar (‘13) and his wife Hannah began a new ministry with the Robinwood Church of God in Hagerstown, Maryland, this summer. Clark serves as associate minister.

Jason Tannery (‘03) recently released a CD entitled “The Jason Tannery Band: Something Old, Something New.” Jason has served as associate pastor at First Church of God in Vero Beach since he graduated from FCC. Follow Jason at thejasontanneryband.com.

The national law firm of Quarles & Brady LLP announced Marshall P. Bender (‘00) was named by Florida Super Lawyers & Rising Stars as among the top up-and-coming attorneys in the state of Florida for 2013. Each year, no more than 2.5 percent of lawyers in the state are named to the list.

Jason Tannery (‘03) recently released a CD entitled “The Jason Tannery Band: Something Old, Something New.” Jason has served as associate pastor at First Church of God in Vero Beach since he graduated from FCC. Follow Jason at thejasontanneryband.com.

JUFL: Five months have passed since the merger of FCC and JUFL. What have been your impressions of the merger thus far?

JIM: I have been overwhelmed by not only the professional way that Johnson University has operated as the merger has taken place, but also the spirit in which they have operated. I see why Johnson University has such an impeccable reputation and why this merger was good not only for FCC, but also for the Kingdom at large.

JUFL: Johnson University Florida has played a significant role in your life; you were a student, employee and trustee of FCC. While you have fond memories of the past, what excites you about the future of JUFL?

JIM: Some of my greatest memories are ones directly connected to my years at FCC. I received a great education, I met lifetime friends, and I met my wonderful wife of 22 years at the Florida campus. Being so connected to the faculty for so many years and now serving as minister to some of them has allowed me to bond with this school in so many ways. What excites me about the future is the new bonds I can make with our extended family in Knoxville. The dreams and aspirations of both schools can be even greater as we move into the future.

JUFL: Your daughter is a freshman at JUFL. Why did you choose this institution for her higher education, and what would you say to parents who are considering sending their students to JUFL?

JIM: When we were looking to enroll Emilee in college, we actually wanted her to attend the Knoxville campus because she has been a Florida girl all her life. She decided she wanted to be close to home her first year and stay plugged in to her church family at First Christian Church of Kissimmee. She has really enjoyed and appreciated the friends she has made and loves her professors at JUFL. As a parent and past student recruiter for the College, I would convey to parents this advice: nothing beats a solid Christian college environment and education! Every student should start out at a Christian college.

JUFL: As a trustee you were involved at the onset with the merger of Johnson University. What have you learned about Johnson’s administration and faculty as they have navigated the merger?

JIM: To be bluntly honest, the days and months following the loss of accreditation in December of last year were some of the most difficult and stressful months of my life. We did not know what the Johnson folks would do. We knew our options were few, and yet the more we talked and conversed with the administration and Board of Trustees, the more I knew the hand of God was all over this union. The leadership of Johnson University could not have been more professional and more understanding. I have grown to love and respect the Johnson model of leadership more by working so closely with them during the merger.

JUFL: As a seven year employee of the College, you built many relationships with alumni through the years. What would you say to the alumni of Florida Christian College to encourage them regarding the merger?

JIM: First of all, the ministry of FCC is going to continue as a result, largely, of the joint partnership with Johnson University. The name on the sign is not nearly as important as heart of ministry in the minds of the faculty and student body. We will always cherish the memories and the education that we received at FCC. The legacy that was started many years ago will continue without the catastrophic debt and the pressures that came with running a deficit year in and year out. Greater years are ahead for this great institution. I, for one, thank God continually that this merger worked out the way it did. I love the College, I love being a part of the School, and I can’t wait to see God continue to shine down upon both campuses.
A Worship Thought...

Our choral director, Dirk Donahue, reminds the JUFL Choir and Christian Choral Society to breathe in and breathe out. A beautiful tone can be achieved with proper breath support and control, one of the key indicators of adequate vocal proficiency. My mother, though a classically trained vocalist, suffered from severe asthma. Her lung condition was further aggravated by living most of her adult life near the garbage dump in Manila appropriately named Smoky Mountain, not to be confused with the picturesque range in Tennessee. Mom breathed in the destructive smoke from burnt junk and chemicals. The polluted air destroyed her lyric soprano voice. The following Scriptural passage presents a similar dilemma in our daily walk with God:

It wasn’t so long ago that you were mired in that old stagnant life of sin. You let the world, which doesn’t know the first thing about living, tell you how to live. You filled your lungs with polluted unbelief, and then exhaled disobedience. We all did it, all of us doing what we felt like doing, when we felt like doing it, all of us in the same boat. It’s a wonder God didn’t lose his temper and do away with the whole lot of us. Instead, immense in mercy and with an incredible love, he embraced us. He took our sin-dead lives and made us alive in Christ. He did all this on his own, with no help from us! Then he picked us up and set us down in highest heaven in company with Jesus, our Messiah (Ephesians 2:1-6 MSG).

Worship is breathing in God and breathing out a life of praise. In his song “Never Once,” Matt Redman beautifully describes the process. He writes, “Every step we are breathing in your grace; evermore we’ll be breathing out your praise.” If we breathe in and fill our lungs with polluted unbelief, we exhale disobedience, rebellion, and selfishness. But if we breathe in God’s Word, His promises, His goodness, His mercy, His patience, we fill our lungs with His character and passion. Just imagine the quality of song of praise and the life of worship we breathe out!

Pump up the Power of Your Donation!

Maximize personal contributions to Johnson University Florida and increase the impact of your gift by taking advantage of your employer’s “Matching Gift Program.” Many companies offer matching gift programs to encourage employees to contribute to charitable organizations. Some provide matching funds to support employee volunteer hours. Most of these programs match contributions dollar for dollar, and some will even double or triple the amount of your gift!

Each company has its own guidelines for employees, spouses, retirees, and widows/widowers. Check with your Human Resources Department to learn about the programs they offer. Most corporate procedures are simple:

- Request a Matching Gift Form from your company.
- Complete and submit the form along with your gift.
- Completed forms can be sent with your personal gift to: Johnson University Florida 1011 Bill Beck Blvd., Kissimmee, FL 34744
- We will verify the completed form and return it to the company.
- The company issues a matching gift contribution to Johnson University Florida.

Companies which have matched gifts thus far this year include: Eli Lilly & Co. Foundation, Inc.; Nationwide Insurance Foundation; State Farm Companies Foundation; ExxonMobil Foundation; Harris Foundation; and Bank of America. And great news for local supporters, Walt Disney World has recently added JUFL to their list of approved organizations for matching gifts!
