Johnson University Tennessee plays Johnson University Florida in Women’s Soccer

Knoxville, Tennessee, Saturday, September 6: Johnson University Tennessee’s Women’s Soccer team will hit the field to compete against their sister school, Johnson University Florida.

On July 1, 2013 these two Universities merged under one banner, making them sisters both in name and association.

The game will be held on the Soccer fields of the JUTN campus, 7900 Johnson Drive, Knoxville, TN 37998 at 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 6.

Since 1893, Johnson University has been a leader in Christian higher education. Today the Johnson University System offers more than 70 accredited bachelor’s, master’s, Ph.D., and associate's programs across three campuses – in East Tennessee, Central Florida, and online. Each campus reflects the University’s mission to equip individuals for Christian ministries and other strategic vocations to extend the kingdom of God.
